Financial Support

If money pressures are getting to you, Auriga are expert providers of welfare and debt advice. They provide a wide range of services, including advice on budgeting, one to one casework, help with bills and tariff switches, tribunal support and representation, access to grant aid and much more.

Money worries can be complex and debilitating and you will experience certain life events during employment such as promotion or taking parental leave, which contribute to this. In your first call, their assessors will ask you a few questions to establish your situation and identify your specific needs. Depending on your circumstances, you can access a range of money advice and practical help to resolve your money concerns and improve your financial wellbeing. No matter how big or small your struggles, speaking to someone empathetic can be calming when you have money fears.
